I've got a question - California can't power citizens houses, but now they're going to push everyone to power their vehicles with electricity? How are they going to keep their grid up?

30:00 It sure was, Matt! PCR test and all. The drug AZT is responsible for the premature expiration of around 350k people. You got your positive PCR test, then got on AZT, which slowly made you reach premature expiration. Not unlike today's deadly disease. I'd get way more specific but I'm trying to dodge the shadowban.

Being a passive blackpill helps the enemy. Even if there is no national hope, do things locally.

I feel the same way as Blond, will voting really make a difference. I'm not so sure anymore. The same things keep happening over and over and leaves me in total despair. Hope then despair, hope then despair. Rinse and repeat!

Electric vehicles will do jack for"climate change" they'll just shift the goalposts if everyone gets one anyways. Also, good look getting of petroleum. So many things use petroleum like pharmaceuticals, cosmetics, rubber, plastics etc.

Why is Nina worried about threats while she's pregnant as compared to not? She thinks it's just a clump of cells in her body at 38 weeks, so pregnancy doesn't factor into it at all. That is unless she accepts it as her baby when it's her pregnancy
